1. The Republicans of the Fourth Congressional District in delegate convention assembled renew our declaration of allegiance to the organized Republican party and our devotion to its principles and policies as enunciated by its National Conventions and carried into effect by its administrations and Congresses.

2. We heartily endorse the wise conservative, firm and progressive administration of President Taft and the wholesome, just and useful laws passed by the Sixty-first Congress.

3. We crdially endorse the able, energetic and effective work of Senator Wm. O. Bradley. Editor Republican: -- I have no intention of provoking a political controversy with so orthodox Republican newspaper as the Hartford Republican, but your criticism in the editorial columns of your paper last week of Nicholas Longworth's declaration that he would not support uncle Joe Cannon for reelection to the speakership was confined too closely to the purely personal (eatures of the case. Your comment that gratitude was a factor almost wholly wanting among politicians was justly made; but in Mr. Longworth's declaration, involving as it did so much of the welfare of the Republican party and the nation, the personal equation is negligible. Speaker Cannon was the product of a system the American people have outgrown. The Republican party was demanding an assurance that Cannon would be relegated to the ranks. FIGHTING THE Prevented.

Promptness in Reaching Conflagation and Skill in Fighting Very Important.

Officials of the U.S. Department of Agriculture are of the opinion that 1910 will hold the record among many years for the severity of the losses from forest fires. The summer fires followed a spring season believed to have been the worst, certainly in the Lake States, known for a long time Nor is it wise to assume that the flagrations which have called forth three Federal Departments have been have once more made a wet blanket of the dry forest floor. That the total losses of the year will run up to many millions of dollars is consid-

How such losses may be prevented is a matter of general public concern. To the National Forest timber burned must be adder great amounts on State and private holddings, besides the immense damage done to town, farm, and other property, Railroads have suffered from the interruption of traffic as well as from direct loses. A bulletin by Forester and the proper methods of preventing and fighting them, as follows:

"In some sections of the country forest fires have always been of such common occurrence that there is a entirely eliminated, for in the forest there is always inflammable material which is very easily ignited. They may, however, be largely prevented, and under efficient organization their damage may be kept down to a very small amount. The problem is like that in cities where fires can never be entirely eliminated, but where the risk of loss to property may be reducced almost to in-

"The principles of fighting forest fires are essentially the same as those recognized in fighting fires in fires are essentially the same as portance: (1) Quick arrival at the fire; (2) an adequate force; (3) proper equipment: (4) a thorough organization of the fighting crew, and (5) skill in attacking and fighting fires. In a wellorganized system of patrol the guard who discovers a fire ccommunicates quickly to other guards and to headquarters by telephone, signal, or other means and indicates the number of men he needs.

"The efficiency of the fire-fighting crew depends very largely on their skill and experience, and particularly on the skill and experience of the man directing the work. It is not only a question of knowledge of how to assign each man where his work will be mose effective, but there must be judgment exercised in determining the general method of attack. The character of the fire, the character of the forest, the condition of the atmosphere, the strength and direction of the wind, the arpidiinto consideration."

After describing how surface fires may be put out by beating, by throw- nal and one of the best farm papers ing sand or loose earth, and by other methods, the account goes on:

so fierce that it is impossible to meet it directly. One method under such elecumstances is to direct the course of the fire. The attack is made on the sides near the front, eparating the forward portion of the fire from the main wings. A part of How Can Great Loss be the crew attacks the forward part and others run down and extinguish the wings. The front of the fire, attacked from the sides, is forced gradually and constantly into a narrower path Usually the front can be directed toward some cleared space, road, pond, stream, swamp, or fire line, when it will be checked enough to admit of a direct front attack. Sometimes by this plan the front may be rapidly narrowed by working from the sides, until it is at last entirely extinguished. The plan of giving direction to the course of the fire has often been successfully carried out when the fighting crew is too small for a direct attack.

that it is impossibles to stop them by direct attack, no matter how numerous and efficient the crew or complete the equipment for fighting back firing become the only means of stopping the fire. It should, however, be used only when it is absolutely necessary. One of the commonest mistakes in fighting fires is to overestimate the rapidity of the fire and the difficulty of putting it out. A forest fire is always a frightening spectacle, particularly if it is sweeping in the direction of one's own property. Men often become excited and start back fires when it is entirely unnecessary. "A San Francisco says.—"Cherie can speak only English, French Spanish, Latin, and Esperanto," said the mother of eightyear-old Winifred Sackville Stoner, Jr., "that is she can speak only those languages fluently and think in them. She can also speak Japanese, Russian, German, Polish and Italian to the extent that she can carry on a conversation in them, but she can't think in them."

While Mrs. Stoner was talking the child played about her home at No. 465 Melville street Palo Alto, talking to her dolls, frisking from room to porch and from porch to room, like any healthy child of eight with but one language to its credit.

Little "Cherie" Stoner is William James Sidis' only rival in infantile precocity, and the sole reason that her fame is not yet so great as his is that she is but eight years old, while he is twelve. The girl prodigy is now living with her mother in Palo Alto and will be to Stanford university what William James Sidis is to Harvard.

Not only is the child a linguist with a stock of tongues in her head that surpasses the vocabulary of the most assiduous savants, but she is a poet and has published a book of her verses. She is a reader of the classics and would be perfectly at home at Dr. Elliott's five-foot shelf of books if she were tall enough to

She appeared to be a bit larger than children of eight usually are. Her eyes shone big and brown. She wore a simple checked pinafore and a dainty gold chain and locket about her throat. She had white stockings and sandals on her substantial little feet, and she was not still for a moment. The book of "Jingles," which Miss Winifred Sackville Stoner published at the age of six, is a book of 52

Kentucky State Fair Notes.

Five of the World's fastest pacers will be the "added attraction" at the Kentucky State Fair, which begins in Louisville, on Monday, September 12. The Fair management was able to secure the attraction for Fair both days and night only one day, Saturday, the closing day of the Fair. Dan Patch, with a record of 1:55; Hinor Heir, 1:59 1-4, George Gano, 2:03-3-4, Hedgewood "Boy, 2:02 1-4 and Lady Maud C., 2:02 1-2, are the monarchs of the turf who will be seen together on Kentucky's soil for the first time. Dan Patch and Hinor Heir will be driven as a team against time. It is possible the horse will also remain over Saturday night and be exhibited at the closing night horse show.

Wednesday, September 14 will be one of the banner days of the Kentucky State Fair. A reception in honor of Kentucky men from every section of the Commonwealth have signified their intention of being present. Although "Kentucky Day" has been scheduled for the day following, the inauguration of the day for Kentucky statesmen exclusively is expected to mean two full days dedicated to the citizens of Kentucky generally. Invitations have been sent out to members of the Legislature, the Kentucky delegation in Congress, State and county officials and others prominent in public life.

What Are We Coming To?

Men and brethren, think of Republican convention in good old Iowa repudiating the Tariff law of its own party and declaring that it is a betrayal of party pledges. Then of what the new Tariff has actually atccomplished and wonder:

It as converted a deficit of $58, 000,000 into a surplus of $11,000,000.

It has opened the doors to foreign merchandise wider than under any Tariff law ever written.

It has secured trade concessions from foreign countries under the opself adrift from the moorings and eration of the minimum and maximum clause, such as this nation has never enjoyed before.

New England, wanting her indusing to let the industries of New England be sacrificed, the New England Representatives in Congress will come back with, "All right; you slaughter us and we'll slaughter you."

This process of give and take which has been contemptuously dubbed by the Free Traders the Tariff game of "you tickle me and I'll tickle you"-is the undoubted basis of every general Tariff measure that comes out us where there will be much differencee under the plan of "scientific revision." Does He Want Another Panic?

Mr. Rooseveelt apparently wants another panic; but does Mr. Taft. want one? This is a question that Wade and Leslie Greer have all dispresident will soon have to answer.

But credit and confidence have already begun to suffer. The Roosevelt speeches have sent a shiver of apprehension, through the world of commerce and industry, not merely because the former president is preaching Socialism, Populism and demagogy, but because of the general opinion that he is again a candidate for president and that Mr. Taft is contented with the role of proxy.

If Mr. Taft had made it plain that he regarded himself as president of the United States in his own right, that he was no mere stopgap for anybody, there would be little cause for anxiety,no matter what Mr. Roosevelt might sayy or do. But Mr. Taft has encouraged the belief that he looked upon himself as a proxy and that he considered Mr. Roosevelt his political superior.

The meekness and humility that the president has shown since the as evidence of abdiction. Nowhere that the president would fight to sent any political insult that Mr. deed, the common opinion is that if Republican national convention away from Mr. Taft in 1912 the president either will not resist or that he will wait until the battle is lost.

In consequence, all these wild Populistic and Socialistic schemes and policies that Mr. Roosevelt has presented on his Western tour are regarded as probable issues in the next presidential campaign. Commerce and industry are confronting another reign of terror, such as brought on the panic of 1907, which threw 2,000,000 men out of work and cost the country hundreds of millions of dollars. They believe themselves threatened with another period of government by demagogy and denunciation, all because Mr. Taft has been a proxy.

Mr. Taft is doing nothing to quiet the alarm. Does he want a panic? that another of My Policies to which his administration is pledged? -New York World.

Reed's Tariff Nuggets.

Extracts from the speech delivered by Thomas B. Reed in the House of "The history of Protection has been most remarkable. Fifty years ago the man from New York (Mr. Coc Britain had adopted Free-Trade, the United States had started in the same direction, and the whole world seemed about to follow. To day the entire situation seems to be reversed The whole civilized world, except Great Britain, has become Protectionist, and the very year last passed has witnessed the desertion of English principles by the last English colony which held out. This has been done in defiance of the opinions of every political economist in England who wrote prior to 1850, and of most of those who have written since. Ten years ago it was equally true at one and the same time that every boy who graduated from college graduated a Free-Trader, and that every one of them who afterwards became a producer or distributor of our goods became also a Protectionist.

After thirty years of Protection, undisturbed by any serious menace of Free-Trade, up to the very year now last past, this country was the greatest and most flourishing nation on the face of this earth. Loud applause on the Republican side. Moreover with the shadow of this unjustifiable bill resting cold upon it, with mills closed, with hundreds of thousands of men unemployed industry at a standstill, and prospects before it more gloomy than ever marked its history-except once this country is still the greatest and the richest that the sun shines on, or ever did shine on.—Renewed applause.

Says Mr. Francis Walker in substance, for I quote only from memory, and from a newspaper at that; "If the workman of America would be content with the meager life beyoud seas he could save two-thirds Shorter hours of labor were scorned not only by Cobden and Bright, but by every political economist in England even down to 1883, when of labor as a "repudiation of the great doctrine of Free-Trade." The sole idea of the political economist of that class has always been as low sonable. wages as possible, as long hours as could be, and a product of as cheap price as possible.

Instead of that the Aldrich report, which deserves the high ecomium of the gentlewith the approval of the distinguished Secretary of the Treasury," even if it does "emanate from a Democratic Bureau of Statistics", shows that since 1860 money wages have risen 68 per cent. Or if you say, and you would be right in so saying that wages should be maesured by what they will buy, the result is still more striking. With wages rising prices of manufactured goods falling, with lessening hours of labor, what more do you want except more of the same sort? -Applause on the Republican side.

I confess to you that this question of wages is to me the vital question. To insure our growth in civilization and wealth we must not only have wages as high as they are now, but constantly and steadily increasing. Loud applause on the Republican side. No applause for this sentiment, I notice, on the Democratic side.

This question of wages is all-important as bearing upon the question of consumption. Who are the consumers? In the old days when the products of manufactures were luxuries the lord and his retainers, the lady and her maids were the consumers, a class apart by themselves, but today the consumers are the producers. Long ago the laborer consumed only what would keep him alive. Today he and his wife and their children are so immeasureably the most valuable customers that if the shop had to give up the wealthy or those whom it is the custom to call poor, there would not be a moment's hesitation or a moment's doubt.

Everyone knew that the Democrcatic members of the Senate Committee on Wages and Prices of Commodities would attribute the increase in the cost of living to the Tariff, and now that they have done so in the minority report upon the subject which has just been made public no one is surprised. As a matter of fact, the Tariff has demonstrably less to do with the increase in the cost of living than any other of the dozen different possible causes which have been discussed in this connection. Indeed it has not been, and it cannot be convincingly shown that the Tariff has anything whatever to do with it. This country has been living under a Protective Tariff for a good many years, with the single disastrous interval of the Wilson bill and there is no such difference between the existing schedules and the schedules which were in force ten years ago as to account for the rise in the cost of commodities which has occurred since then. Most of the advance which is the subject of so drove of cattle at Spring Lick, Wedin the past five years, during which substantially unchanged.—Philidelphia

The Cow.

The dairy cow, if able to express her self in a way which the human family would comprehend, might well lay claim to being man's best friend. She might establish such a claim by calling attention to the fact that from her product and from her carcass man manufactures more of the necessities of life than from any other similar source. She furnishes these necessi- and lands flatfooted in Spain. The ties to him from infancy until such a time as temporal things are no longer associated with his existence, and she does it ungrudgingly and constant

In addition to contributing to man's necessity and his pleasure, the prosperity of an agricultural community The pamperos periodicaly blow down is more closely identified with her than with any other of the domestic animals. The horse is quite essential in tilling the soil, but where necessity requires it the sturdy son of the cow can take his place, as he has done in every agricultural section change. on earth. The horse can only furnish labor and can only return a profit to his owner when conditions are right for returning satisfactory grain crops. It is a well known fact that the dairy cow is the salvation of the farmer in times of poor crops as she is able to convert the rough crops Cherry, Bowling Green, Ky. which are never a total failure, into dairy products which always have a cash value.

In addition to this she furnishes skin milk and butter milk for the calves, pigs and poultry and fertility for the soil, without which a farm becomes less valuable each year and the whole country less prosperous.

The elimenation of the dairy cow would necessitate an almost revolutionary readjustment of Man's tastes and requirements. It would mean untold suffering and hardship. Of course she will not be dispensed with but her value can perhaps best be appreciated by contemplating such a loss.

She will continue to be man's best friend as long as the human family exists and will keep on supplying him with his greatest needs as she has done through all the ages. THE NATIONAL DAIRY UNION, Raising a False Issue.

A story well known to lawyers of the last generation is about the "umorella case." A man was charged with stealing an umbrella, and a number of witasses went into the box to testify to the offense. The counsel for the defendant noted that each witness carried an umbrella (the time of year was midsummer, which explains the necesofty for these impediments). As a mat- treal and Boston, with ocean trip Fare for round trip $7.45. ter of fact, the prisoner had no defense to make. The barrister, thrown on his wits, exclaimed: "Gentlemen of the fury, did you not notice that each of the witnesses carried an umbrella into the box? Why is this, gentlemen? It to done in order to infect your minds with the idea of an umbrella, to prejudice the prisoner in your eyes, to raise * false issue,' and I appeal to you to dgnify your detestation of this concerted action by bringing in a verdict of not guilty." The judge, who im-paid to such a plea, took little time and less pains to sum up the case. The jury nevertheless brought in a verdict in accordance with the resourceful barrister's wishes.-London News.

When Wife is Away.

The "summer divorce" brings separation in a host of families.

Only about 12,000 to 14,000 homes are in this city each summer wholly closed and the family away. There are thrice this number from 40,000 to 50,000 where for all or part of the summer the man is at home and at work alone-more, or less-and the wife and children are away.

If you are the man and at home are you writing to wife and family regularly? Are you taking as much pains about your family letters as your business correspondence? You pride yourself on your business letters. You make them prompt. plain, clear full and effective. Do you do as much in writing to your family? plored desert highlands of Brazil, and Are your reports as full and speaking as you make business reports? Yet your family means more to you and in your heart of hearts you care more for it than for your business. You slave in your business for the sake of your family.

If you are the woman and away from home, are your letters full, comas you do into a club paper, for instance?

Nothing holds like a good letter. Many a man and many a woman is lays many double yolked eggs, but anchored by a good strong faithful within a few days the hen went her full loving, daily letter. Nothing hold the writer in these family separations firmer than the habit of daily writing all that goes on. Either all goes in, which is safety or something is left out, which is a danger signal and warns, like an alarm bell, those who want to be right, but have had some pleasant, tempting reason for wandering in the empty house, at home or away from home, in the great summer divorce.

Make your family letters count. Write often, put all in make the letter a daily journal and pour out the inner love, which is often better and more easily written than said and too often taken for granted, until too that, late death ends all and leaves silence unavailing regret.-From the Philadelphia Pa., Press.

Secretary J. W. Newman has this seeson paid particular attention to what may be described as the purely amusement features for the forthcoming state fair. A contract has been closed with the United Fairs Booking Company to supply "The Pass" with the most novel and up-todate attractions that could possibly be assembled. The usual precautions have been taken to insure the correct moral tone and cleanliness of the individual shows. This amusement feature will be on such a large scale this year that it was found necessary to enlarge the area heretofore utilized as "The Pass," and that justly famous avenue of mirth will be arranged in the shape of an immense crescent with every inch of space along the avenue occupied by some new amusement con-

The list of "free attractions" is a splendid one. These offerings of the fair management proved so popular last year that care was taken this summer to close centracts with the best the amusement market has to present. A star feature will be the Wakahama Japanese Troupe, consisting of a dozen or more tumblers and jugglers from the "Land of the Rising Sun." The Japs will compete with Madame Louise's Monkey Show, Fink's Trained Mules, Morris and Morris, expert tumblers, and Slackey and Briede, high wire artists. Davenport's Fancy Horses are expected to carry off the highest honors, however, among the free attractions. This entertainment is nothing short of a three-ring circus, which will be presented each afternoon and evening. The acme of spectacular display will be enjoyed each evening in the fireworks exhibition. A contract has been closed with the world-famous Pain, and that noteworthy is at work on a program designed especially for the Kentucky State Fair. The feature of the fireworks display each night will be an original pyrotechnic production entitled, "Ploneer Days in Kentucky." It is said that the services of over 150 we can all lay claim to as being a part men and women will be required to properly present the spectacle. Linked with the features already described there will be the races by day state. Every Kentuckian should reand the horse show in the pavilion by gard this as in a sense his fair. It repnight. Negotiations are also under way with owners of other amusement state, just as the county fair repreenterprises, and it is probable that the list of special attractions will be large. ty in the way of agriculture, live stock ly increased before the opening of the gates of the 1910 fair.

Friday evening, September 16, has been set aside as Commercial Organizations Night, with Dr. W. B. Gossett, of Louisville, chairman. Farewell Night will close the fair week, Jas. E. Dorland, of Louisville, being chairman of the occasion.

Natiello's Band at State Fair.

Sig. Ernesto Natiello's famous band has been engaged for the Kentucky State Fair of 1910, and will be heard in two grand concerts each day. There are some sixty musicians in this great organization, which is classed among the most prominent bands in America. Free concerts will be given in a bandstand near the pavilion each afternoon and night, and Natiello and his musiclans will also be heard during the horse show and hippodrome performances. In addition, two bands have d to provide music for the races and render concert programs during each afternoon and evening.

Hundreds of visitors come to Louisville on the Saturday and Sunday before the opening of the fair, and for these a grand treat has been arranged. On Sunday before the opening of the big exhibition two sacred concerts will be given by Natiello's band at the fair grounds. Last year something like 10,000 persons visited the scene of the fair on the day before the opening, and the fair management decided that, as Sig. Natielle and his musicians will be here ahead of time, it would be wise to arrange this treat for those who go down to inspect the grounds.

OUR FAIR.

In addition to the county fair that of our possessions, the Kentucky State Fair, at Louisville, Sept. 12-17, belongs to us as much as to any people in the resents what is being done all over the sents what is being done in each counand general advancement. It is a combination of the various county lairs, not only of Kentucky, but a great many other states, and there are represented at this exhibition live stock, etc., produced in the various states. The state fairs are growing each year and the attendance is increasing, as everyone wants to know what is being done in other parts of the state and country.

Live Stock Judging Contests.

Live stock judging by students and farmer boys will be witnessed at the Kentucky State Fair of 1910. One of C. Rankin offers to the farmer boys ming in the river.-Boston Transcript. $100 to be used as a scholarship in the agricultural department of the state sum is divided into five premiums.

A MODERN SCALPER.

The Little Comedy That Was Played Between the Acts.

A little comedy between acts enliv ened things at a Broadway theater one night last week. A middle aged man accompanied by his wife sat directly behind a pretty young girl and her es-cort. At the end of the first act the middle aged man went out for "fresh air." He came back bringing the smell of the fresh air and gayer spirits with him. His wife gave him a startled glance, and like a flash her hand went up to his vest. There dangling from the top button was a bunch of brown, curly puffs. There was a dynamitical second as the wife held the puffs in her white gloved hand and looked at them. Now she was not a jealous wife-just a common sense little woman, ready to meet an emergency. She looked at the heads about her. The pretty girl's back hair looked as if a piece had fallen out. The wife leaned over to the side away from the slipped a hand down and back, and the wife stealthily laid the bunch of puffs which her husband had carried away on his vest button in the owner's hand. The latter kept them concealed, gently and artfully reached up, pinned them into place, and escort, watching the rising curtain, was none the wiser. -New York Times.

HIS STUPID MISTAKE.

Much to His Surprise It Was Promptly Rectified.

A well known Londoner was planning an entertainment on an elaborate scale to be given to various friends in the neighborhood of his country seat. Unfortunately his nearest neighbor, a close relative, is highly uncongenial to himself and his intimates, and he racked his brains to devise a scheme by which he might avoid the necessity of inviting the undesirable cousin to be among his guests.

"I have it!" he announced to his wife at breakfast on the morning of the event. "I'll send him some tickets for the play tonight in town. Of course he'll be delighted, as he seldom has an opportunity of going to the theater."

The tickets were accordingly sent, and the host with an easy conscience proceeded to enjoy the company of his friends. But his satisfaction was of short duration. At the height of the festivities, much to his surprise, in walked the objectionable neighbor.

"Such a stupid mistake you made!" he announced as he approached his cousin. "As soon as I heard about your party I knew that you must have sent me the tickets for the wrong night, so I got them changed for tomorrow evening and came right over here as soon as I could."-London Tatler.

What Napoleon Couldn't Do. An incident connected with Napoleon

when he was in exile in Elba is commemorated on the island to this day by an inscription affixed to the wall of a peasant's house. A man named Giaconi was plowing when the famous exile came along one day and expressed an interest in his work. Napoleon even took the plow handles and attempted to guide it himself, but the oxen refused to obey him, overturned the plow and spoiled the furrow. The inscription runs thus:

"Napoleon the Great, passing by this place in MDCCCXIV, took in the neighboring field a plow from the hands of a peasant and himself tried to plow, but the oxen, rebellious to those hands which yet had guided Europe, headlong fled from the furrow." -St. Louis Republic.

The Guarantee.

Gobsa Golde, the American millionaire, accompanied by his daughter, Miss Lotta, picked out a Rembrandt at a foreign dealer's and then, before planking down the cash, said very sternly:

"Now, see here, sir, do you guarantee this Rembrandt?"

"Yes, Mr. Golde," the dealer replied. "A seven years' guarantee goes with the canvas.

"Oh, very well," said Gobse, molli-fled, and he took out his check book and fountain pen.-Washington Star.

A Bigger Bid.

A Lincolnshire parish once possessed a clergyman who was not much appreciated. One day he remarked to his church warden: "You people don't seem to appraciate me. Do you know that on leaving my last sphere of work the people showed their appreciation so much that they gave me a real silver slaver?"

"That is nothing," was the churchwarden's reply. "If tha' would only go away from this parish we'd give thee a gold un!"-London Chronicle.

RAINING CATS AND DOGS.

Various Explanations of the Origin of This Expression.

Many explanations have been given of the origin of the expression "raining cats and dogs." One is that it is a perversion of the French "catadoupe," a waterfall-"it is raining a catadoupes," or cataracts. Another explanation is that the male blossoms of the willow tree, which are used on Palm Sunday to represent the branches of palm, were called "cats and dogs" in some parts of England, where they increase rapidly after a few warm April showers, and the belief prevailed that the rain brought them.

Others trace the saying to northern mythology, in which the cat is said to have great influence on the weather. and sailors still have a saying, "The cat has a gale of wind in her tail," when she is unusually frisky. Witches that rode upon the storms were said to assume the form of cats, and the stormy northwest wind is called "the stormy northwest wind is called "the cat's nose" in the Harz mountains even at the present day. Then the dog even at the present day. Then the dog is a symbol of wind, which in old German pictures is figured as the head of a dog or wolf from which blasts issue. The cat therefore symbolizes a downpour of rain; the dog, strong gusts of wind, which accompany it, and so a rain "of cats and dogs" is a heavy rain with wind.

A NIGERIAN LEGEND.

It Tells of the Origin of Man's Subjection to Women.

There is a quaint old Nigerian legend that relates the origin of man's subtection to women.

At the beginning of things, the legend runs, the world was peopled by women only. One day the earth god, Awbassi Nai, happened by accident to kill a woman. On hearing this the rest Courier - Journal he meant to slav them, he would bring destruction on all together rather than kill them one by one.

Awbassi was sorry for the grief he had caused and offered as compensation to give them anything they should | tion rate with Daily or Sunday Courchoose out of all his possessions. They begged him to mention what he had to give and said that they would all cry "Yes" when he named the thing they wished to have.

Awbassi mentioned one by one all his fruits, fowls and beasts, but at each they shouted "No." At length the list was nearly ended-only one thing remained to offer.

* "Will you, then, take man?" asked Awbassi at last. "Yes!" they roared in a great shout, and, catching hold of one another, danced for joy at the thought of the gift Awbassi was send-

The Sense of Humor.

A man has a sease of humor or he has not. If he has not he cannot acquire it; if he has it by birthright he cannot lose it with the passing of cannot lose it with the passing of years. The only change as life goes on in one who has this inborn sense is that different things appeal to it from those that excited amusement in youth, but in this it is like other | nental faculties. As judgmen lows and ripens, so the power of discovering those things that excite smiles becomes more discriminating. Humor is not a physical attribute to fade as the body loses its youthful elasticity, but purely mental. Men who possess it in goodly measure have been known to smile on their deathbeds over the very comedy of life .-Indianapolis Star.

The Flax Plant.

Linen is obtained from the flax plant, a small, delicate annual with a tiny blue flower. The plant is pulled by hand in the summer, the seeds, known in commerce as linseed, being removed and the straw subjected to various processes to separate the fibrous part which constitutes the linen. First it is steeped in water and then passed through a drying and heating process on revolving wheels until all foreign matter is removed. It is then ready for manufacture.

Not a Question of Etiquette.

Mrs. Hendricks (the landlady)-Can I help you to some more soup, Mr. Dumley?

Mr. Dumley-No. thanks.

Mrs. Hendricks (engagingly-Don't refuse. Mr. Dumley, because it isn't considered good form to be helped twice to soup. We're not particular people here.

Mr. Dumley-Oh, etiquette has nothing to do with it, madam; it's the soup.
